Abstract The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the physical fitness and health-related quality of life (HRQL) of sedentary, middle-aged women. The study was a randomized controlled trial. The intervention group (IG) participated in a 12-week training program, while the control group (CG) remained sedentary. The IG showed significant improvements in physical fitness and HRQL compared to the CG. The results suggest that a 12-week training program can improve physical fitness and HRQL in sedentary, middle-aged women.

Abbildung 1 zeigt die Ergebnisse der Analyse. Die Ergebnisse zeigen, dass die durchschnittliche Lebensdauer der Teilnehmerinnen in der Gruppe, die die Intervention erhielt, signifikant höher war als in der Kontrollgruppe. Die durchschnittliche Lebensdauer betrug in der Kontrollgruppe 7,5 Jahre, während sie in der Interventionsgruppe 8,5 Jahre betrug. Dies deutet darauf hin, dass die Intervention zu einer Verlängerung der Lebensdauer von einem Jahr führte.

Puentevella seeks review of EO 441

By Mark Mathews Staff

The U.S. Department of Education (DOE) has announced that it will review Executive Order 441, which was issued by President George H.W. Bush in 1990. The review is part of a broader effort to ensure that federal education policy is consistent with the goals of the No Child Left Behind Act. The DOE is currently conducting a comprehensive review of all federal education programs, and the review of EO 441 is a key component of this effort. The review will focus on the impact of EO 441 on state and local education agencies, and on the effectiveness of the program in achieving its goals. The DOE is seeking input from the public and from state and local education agencies on the review. Comments can be submitted to the DOE by November 15, 1993.
